Anna Hahn to Die in Electric Chair May 4

STATE SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO SAVE BORGIA

Cincinnati Woman's Only Hope Rests In Hands Of Governor Davey

SIX OF JUDGES AGREE

Error In Trial Charged By Attorneys

COLUMBUS, April 13—(UP)—Anna Marie Hahn, 31, blonde Cincinnati poison slayer, wept in her special cell in Ohio penitentiary today after she was informed that the state Supreme Court had refused to consider the appeal from her conviction.

COLUMBUS, April 13—(UP)—The Ohio supreme court today decreed that Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 31, convicted in Cincinnati's "mass murder" trial last Nov. 6, should be the first woman to die in the electric chair in Ohio.

The high court, in refusing to review Mrs. Hahn's conviction by the Hamilton county courts, set May 4 as the date for her execution.

Executive clemency by Gov. Martin L. Davey would enable the blonde German matron to escape the death penalty.

Mrs. Hahn was convicted by a Common Pleas jury in connection with the death of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner, also of German descent. Her trial was one of the most spectacular in Ohio criminal court history. The court permitted the state to present evidence concerning the poison deaths of several elderly persons to prove its contention that Wagner's death was a part of a bizarre plot to kill old people and obtain their life savings.

Original Date Charged
Mrs. Hahn originally was sentenced to die in the electric chair on March 10, but a stay of execution was granted to permit the appeal to the supreme court.

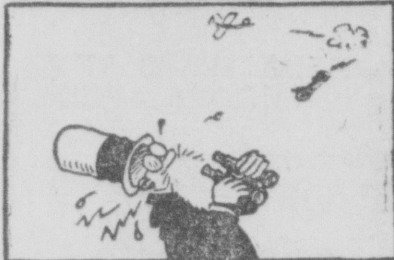

Six of the seven Supreme Court judges concurred in the refusal to review the case. Judge Arthur Day took no stand on the question.

The Hahn appeal was based on alleged violation of constitutional rights. In denying the application, the court's seven-word decision read:

"There is no debatable constitutional question involved."
Attorneys for Mrs. Hahn may apply to the Supreme Court for a rehearing of today's decision, or may appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Mrs. Hahn has been in a special cell in Ohio penitentiary since Dec. 2—its only woman prisoner. Her counsel contended that the trial judge erred in allowing testimony in other deaths than the one for which she was on trial.

Kelly-Nash Organization Losing In Illinois Primary Election

Michael L. Igoe Scott W. Lucas

Scott Lucas, Horner-Courtney Candidate, To Be Winner Over Igoe; Jarecki in Lead

CHICAGO, April 13—(UP)—A revolt in the Illinois Democratic party aided by Republicans and independent voters, toppled the political power of the famed Kelly-Nash organization today in late primary election returns.

Barring a highly improbable shift in trend in the remaining precincts to be tabulated, it was apparent that Gov. Henry Horner and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney had combined to win the nomination for U. S. senator for Congressman Scott Lucas.

Equally important from the point of view of political strategy, they won renomination for Edmund K. Jarecki as Cook county judge, in charge of the election machinery. Courtney reportedly plans to run for mayor against Kelley in 1940.

Horner and Courtney in a joint statement said:

"When all the votes are in and counted Lucas will have a 75,000 plurality."
Igoe Continues Fight
U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, who sought the senatorial nomination with Kelly-Nash backing and vowed to go "up or down with President Roosevelt," refused to concede Lucas' nomination.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash, joint heirs to the political machine of the late Mayor Anton Cermak, likewise demanded to see the complete returns before commenting.

Jarecki, who apparently received the benefit of a heavy Republican and Independent vote, led his Kelly-Nash opponent, Judge John Prystalski, 429,869 to 402,472 in 3,649 of Cook county's 4,377 precincts.

Republicans for the most part cast a light vote for candidates previously selected by committee-men who had only minor opposition. State Rep. Richard J. Lyons, who campaigned bitterly against the New Deal, was endorsed as candidate for U. S. senator.

Twenty-three of 24 incumbent congressmen won renomination, unofficial figures indicated. The

FRENCH SENATE VOTES PREMIER POWER TO RULE

Daladier In Control Of Financial, Economic Problems

VOTE NEARLY UNANIMOUS

Chinese Halted; Nationalists Gain In Spain

PARIS, April 13—(UP)—The senate voted overwhelmingly today to give Premier Edouard Daladier full powers to rule by decree in the financial and economic fields.

The senate joined the chamber of deputies in giving Daladier power for the next three months, during which parliament will be in recess.

Only one vote was lacking to make the senate's decision unanimous. The bill was passed with only minor changes.

Thus enthusiastically endorsed by both houses of parliament, the Premier was free to go ahead with his program of pulling France out of its financial morass and easing the social unrest which has tied up the heavy industry and re-armament program in the Paris region.

Wide Power Granted

Theoretically, Daladier would be permitted to issue decrees on any subject, but his declaration to parliament indicated he would confine them to financial and economic matters and seek as far as possible to solve labor problems by negotiation and conciliation.

Meanwhile, the United States got a taste of war-time atmosphere.

OHIO PERMITTED 1,870,407 ACRES FOR WHEAT CROP

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—The Agriculture Adjustment administration today announced it had allotted 62,500,000 acres to 42 wheat producing states under the 1938 farm program.

Individual acreage allotments will be based on planting and diversion during the last 10 years. Farmers who comply with acreage allotments will receive benefit payments of 12 cents a bushel for the average yield on the allotted acreage. A penalty tax of 50 cents a bushel on acreage in excess of allotments will be deducted from all benefit payments due farmers.

This year, the A. A. A. said, no deductions will be made for exceeding wheat allotments if cooperating farmers reduce other soil depleting crops so as not to exceed the total soil-depleting allotment for their farm.

Acreage allotments for principal wheat producing states: California, 708,656; Colorado, 1,504,623; Idaho, 1,011,604; Illinois, 2,039,411; Indiana, 1,689,970; Iowa, 456,037; Kansas, 12,519,970; Minnesota, 1,609,218; Michigan, 765,831; Missouri, 1,938,358; Montana, 3,973,939; Nebraska, 3,466,075; North Dakota, 9,431,355; Ohio, 1,870,407; Oklahoma, 4,291,784; South Dakota, 3,345,403; Texas, 4,146,240; Washington, 1,912,506; Oregon, 867,859; Pennsylvania, 873,098.

FOUCH GOES TO COUNTY JAIL FOR DISTURBANCE

Fine of $100 and costs on a charge of resisting a police officer was imposed on James Fouch, 39, of E. Ohio street, Wednesday, by Mayor W. B. Cady.

Fouch was arrested Tuesday night for being drunk and disorderly. The resisting charge was filed by Patrolman George Green.

Officers said Fouch destroyed a pail and tin cup in the city jail and created a disturbance throughout the night. He was committed to the county jail after failure to pay his fine.

Pump Priming Program Meets Opposition

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's new "pump priming" program is meeting with opposition from some of the congressional leaders. In this group, shown leaving the White House, Vice President Garner is said to be against the proposal to make non-interest bearing public works loans. The president, in the meantime, prepared a message to congress and arranged for a fireside chat Thursday night. Shown left to right, are Vice President John Nance Garner, Speaker William B. Bankhead, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn. The latter three will battle for the president's program. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said spending was imperative.

Walnut Township Senior Tops County in Contest

Harriet Elizabeth Nothstine, Walnut township senior, obtained a score of 290 out of a possible 400 in the general scholarship test for seniors held April 2, topping the group of 60 Pickaway counties who took the examination.

Official scores were received Wednesday from the state department of education and announced by George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools. Miss Nothstine resides with her aunt, Mrs. Fannie Rector, Walnut township.

Emily Helen Gunning, Circleville high school senior, daughter of Mrs. Helen Gunning, E. Main street, was second highest in the county with an official grade of 285.

Grades of others who ranked in the upper 25 percent in the group who took the tests were Robert William Lane, Circleville, 251; Hazel Marie Peters, Walnut, 242; Carl C. Hosler, Monroe, 236; Robert D. Fickard, Circleville, and Edith Alice Schleich, Deer Creek, 224; Ray Eugene Ebert, New Holland, 222; Hugh Lamb, Walnut, 221; Bonnie Jean Ballou, Circleville, 218; Celia Jane Alexander and Clarabelle Lucille Hoover, both of Ashville, 213; Ernest Harwood Winterhoff, Walnut, 211; Lawrence Ebert Goeller, Circleville, and Jack Edward Russell, Washington, 205.

There seemed an increasing belief that British-Italian negotiations had succeeded even beyond the hopes of British leaders, and that a really friendly period was ahead.

Lewie Hore-Belisha, war secretary, is to visit Premier Benito Mussolini in Rome April 23 to discuss future relations, and then is to go on to Paris to confer with French leaders.

Authoritative sources at Rome said that Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's foreign minister and son-in-law, is to visit London officially, immediately after the agreement becomes actually operative.

JEWELRY WORTH $15,000 STOLEN FROM ACTRESS

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—(UP)—Theft of $15,000 worth of jewelry from Actress Miriam Hopkins' home was reported to police today.

From a wooden case in her bedroom closet, a burglar took a dozen diamond and ruby studded platinum ornaments and two platinum jeweled watches worth $1,200, bracelets and rings. Miss Hopkins was not home.

Police believed that the theft was the so-called "phantom burglar" who has been operating in the wealthy neighborhood of the blonde film star's Tower road home. He slit a French screen and forced a door to enter.

MOTORIST FINED $25 FOR STRIKING DUNKLE'S AUTO

LANCASTER, April 13—Charles Graham, 45, of Basil, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving and was committed to jail by Mayor J. W. Huddle.

Graham backed his car into an auto driven by Stanley Dunkle, of Circleville, causing slight damage to the Dunkle car.

ANTIQUES ASKED FOR BIG EVENT

Windows Of Stores To Be Used To Display Many Historical Items

Circleville and Pickaway county residents who have articles of historical interest in their homes are asked to loan them to the committee in charge of the Northwest Territory celebration, scheduled in Circleville May 9.

George C. Griffith, W. Main street merchant, is in charge of the decoration phases of the celebration. He urged Wednesday that persons who have historical antiques contact him so they will be distributed to the proper places. It is the committee's plan to have hardware stores exhibit historical hardware items; shoe stores, historical shoes; clothing stores, historical dresses and other articles of wear. In order to better distribute the loaned articles, the committee believes that a clearing house, such as Mr. Griffith will supervise, will answer the purpose.

Many community homes have various antique items of interest, and it is urged that all owners cooperate in the celebration program, which will include a parade by the ex-cart caravan of which Billy Kellstadt, Circleville youth, is a member, a colonial dinner for the members of the caravan, and the pageant, which portrays various parts of the opening of the Northwest Territory 150 years ago.

TAIL OF PLANE MAY BE CLUE TO LOST AVIATORS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 13—(UP)—A report that the tail of a plane had been sighted in Lake Weehyakapka today directed searchers for two missing aviators to an area about 20 miles southeast of Lake Wales.

A. E. Thompson of West Palm Beach told officers here he saw an airplane tail in the lake. He believed it might be that in which Charles Griffith of Orlando and J. D. Patterson of Pittsburgh, Pa., disappeared after taking off at Orlando April 5.

Thompson indicated he would organize a searching party and attempt to reach the plane. A $500 reward has been offered for discovery of Griffith's missing ship. Hardwick said authorities in the area where Thompson reported finding the plane would be notified.

COLLISION KILLS MAN

COLUMBUS, April 13—(UP)—Ralph L. Lawrence, 25, Columbus, was killed and Vaughn Newland, 18, was hurt seriously today when a coupe in which they were riding collided with a parked truck. Lloyd Wilson, 38, was less seriously injured.

EXECUTIVE MAY ASK CHECK FOR THREE BILLIONS

Test With Garner Looms As Result Of Pump Priming Program

CHIEF AIDES GATHER

New Public Work Projects To Be Sought

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—President Roosevelt today urged senate and house conferees considering the tax revision bill to retain the principle of the undistributed profits tax.

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—President Roosevelt revived depth-of-depression tactics today in swift, vigorous maneuvers to revive business with a big lending-spending program.

He was almost ready for a test of strength and prestige with Vice President John N. Garner or any other conservative Democrat who would challenge his recovery-relief plans.

This second New Deal drive on depression will be launched tomorrow in a message to congress and bolstered that night with a "fireside chat." The President has taken 45 minutes of radio time for a comprehensive statement on the state of the nation.

Odds today favor his project in general outline but without guarantee that congress will, without protest, write a blank check for $2,750,000,000 to be spent during the Summer, Autumn and Winter months.

As the political-economic situation shapes up on the eve of a new recovery effort, there are three notable differences between the present and the previous depression. The New Deal-Democratic party which snapped bills through at Mr. Roosevelt's bidding in 1933 is divided now and inclined to bolt the White House. The banks which were the weak spot in 1933 are comfortably solvent and high in public confidence. Almost any recovery plan undertaken now must have been tried before.

Pressure for Spending
But business again is far from peak recovery levels. Labor, a vociferous bloc of New Dealers and progressives, and some others clamor for big scale relief spending. The powerful pressure of the mayors and other local officials in many back home communities is exerted for a spending-lending program.

The spectacular business problem today is in the railroad industry. Mr. Roosevelt has asked for immediate remedial legislation but without specifying what congress shall do in this instance nor with the assurance of speedy action which bolstered his efforts five years ago. Railroad recommendations range from carry-over subsidies to consolidation of all lines in a single great system. The lot has been submitted to congress for consideration.

Five cabinet officers and two lending-spending aides were summoned to the White House last night in a conference reminiscent of the stirring days of 1933. White House Secretary Stephen Early said that there probably would be more conferences and that the President was keeping in close

He was almost ready for a test of strength and prestige with Vice President John N. Garner or any other conservative Democrat who would challenge his recovery-relief plans.

This second New Deal drive on depression will be launched tomorrow in a message to congress and bolstered that night with a "fireside chat." The President has taken 45 minutes of radio time for a comprehensive statement on the state of the nation.

Oddly today favor his project in general outline but without guarantee that congress will, without protest, write a blank check for $2,750,000,000 to be spent during the Summer, Autumn and Winter months.

As the political-economic situation shapes up on the eve of a new recovery effort, there are three notable differences between the present and the previous depression. The New Deal-Democratic party which snapped bills through at Mr. Roosevelt's bidding in 1933 is divided now and inclined to bolt the White House. The banks which were the weak spot in 1933 are comfortably solvent and high in public confidence. Almost any recovery plan undertaken now must have been tried before.

Pressure for Spending

But business again is far from peak recovery levels. Labor, a vociferous bloc of New Dealers and progressives, and some others clamor for big scale relief spending. The powerful pressure of the mayors and other local officials in many back home communities is exerted for a spending-lending program.

The spectacular business problem today is in the railroad industry. Mr. Roosevelt has asked for immediate remedial legislation but without specifying what congress shall do in this instance nor with the assurance of speedy action which bolstered his efforts five years ago. Railroad recommendations range from carry-over subsidies to consolidation of all lines in a single great system. The lot has been submitted to congress for consideration.

Five cabinet officers and two lending-spending aides were summoned to the White House last night in a conference reminiscent of the stirring days of 1933. White House Secretary Stephen Early said that there probably would be more conferences and that the President was keeping in close touch.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR OBSERVANCE OF GOOD FRIDAY

Mayor W. B. Cady issued an appeal to Circleville merchants, Wednesday, to close on Good Friday between 2 to 3 p. m., while services are being conducted in local churches.

Union services, open to members of all churches, will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will preach. Other pastors will assist. Services will be held in Trinity Lutheran church at the same hour.

NAZI, JAPANESE ESPIONAGE HIT BY TWO SOLONS

Scott And Dickstein Claim System Of Propaganda To Handicap U. S.

"COUP" IS INDICATED

Sabotage Of Panama Canal Zone Charged

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—Congressmen renewed demands today for an investigation of "un-American propaganda" and of alleged espionage in the United States by agents of foreign countries.

Reps. Byron Scott, D. Calif., and Samuel Dickstein, D. N. Y., both attacked the activities of Nazi organizations in this and the Central American countries.

Scott charged in an address before the house that Germany, Italy and Japan were engaged in extensive espionage in countries adjacent to the Panama Canal, while Dickstein introduced a resolution for an investigation of foreign propaganda in the United States.

Dickstein said that members of the German-American bunds planned to "celebrate the conquest of Austria" on April 20. Such a celebration, he warned, would "lead to bloodshed" because there is "no room here for foreign ideology."

"Coups" Stage Set

He demanded repeal of the neutrality law and practical cooperation with democracies for a "quarantine of aggressor nations." The stage is being set for a "coup" against the United States, he said.

Scott based some of his charges on a recent unidentified magazine article which he said regarded as authentic, "Because I know the author."

"Germany and Italy may win in Europe," he said. "Japan may win in China. They are in an alliance, cooperating in espionage which has just one purpose—sabotaging the Panama Canal which would put the United States in an indefensible position against the three nations."

He said he believed the report that $300,000 worth of armaments were shipped into Nicaragua as recently as Jan. 12, and that Germany, Italy and Japan split the costs of the arms.

Japanese fishermen, he said, are photographing all defenses and sounding the waters off the Panama Canal to find mines. He asserted that the fishing boats carried short wave radio for apparent transmittal of secret messages.

There are a lot of men who can be driven just so far; and since the fifth suit was added to bridge, they're threatening to go back to poker.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

It must be terrible to live in one of them foreign countries where you can't follow your religious belief and customs. Over here the quickest way to lose respect is to profess other people's belief to gain favor.

One cold winter night a political candidate stopped at my uncle's house. After supper grandpa pulled his chair up to the fireplace, knelt down with his elbows on the chair, and his back to the fire and went to bed.

The candidate thought grandpa was prayin' so he did the same thing. After he'd gone, my cousin spoke up and says, "You know, there's a funny fella. He has'ta warm his pants jest like grandpa."

Laurel, Thrice-Married, Faces Woe Before Judge

HOLLYWOOD, April 13—Stan Laurel cast an unappreciative eye at wife No. 1 in court today, glanced unhappily in the direction of No. 2, worried about the painful predicament of No. 3 and said his triple-threat husband hazards were getting him down.

Hardly had No. 1 sued him for far more money than a congressman earns when No. 3, who held his hand all afternoon in court yesterday, was arrested in Beverly Hills and held in $500 bail on hit-and-run misdemeanor charges. She smashed three of her ribs, and as many automobiles.

Laurel took her to a hospital and prepared for resumption of his marital troubles, which he said were making a pauper of him, even though he earns $160,000 a year.

Story Told to Judge

It was his duty to explain to the judge how too many wives can make a salary twice as big as President Roosevelt's seem like shoeshine money. The sad-faced Laurel, who looks always as if he is about to burst into tears and hence is one of the movies' best paid comedians, said the main trouble was that he not only had to give his wives alimony, but that he also had to pay their income taxes.

Laurel, whose marital misadventures have kept police squad cars, process servers and even ambulances buzzing around his house at intervals, was hauled into court by Mrs. Lois N. Laurel, No. 1. He already had made a settlement with Mrs. Virginia Ruth Laurel, No. 2, and he had on his arm Mrs. Vera Laurel, No. 3, who fled from his home to a hospital last month. Later they kissed and made up.

Her smash-up last night made her husband's financial future no brighter. The worried Stan bailed her out, took her to the hospital in an ambulance, and said he had tried in vain to keep her from behind the steering wheel. He said she didn't have a driver's license; that she didn't know how to drive. She said, between moans, that she would have driven all right, if she

Rotary Club to Enjoy Ball Film; Boys Guests

Rotarians will observe a Father-Son program this week with the highlight of their luncheon Thursday to be a four-star picture "Batter Up", the new official American League sound film.

Each Rotarian is to take a boy to the meeting which will be held in the American Hotel Coffee shop.

Many little known facts concerning play in the major leagues are revealed in the new film. Among the features is a sequence in which Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, demonstrates the system employed by the catcher, as field general, to signal the pitcher, second baseman and shortstop, and the method of changing from one code to another when players of the opposing team are on base.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, likewise makes a unique disclosure, telling in his own words how he employs his famous score card to direct the team from the bench. Recorded also is the spiking of Al Simmons, Washington outfielder, by Umpire Harry Geisel in one of last season's games. It is said to be the first time in the history of big league baseball that an accident of this sort has occurred.

Supports Others

Practically every department of play is touched on in the new film, which supplants the three previous editions, "Heads-Up Baseball", "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and "Play Ball". Roger Cramer, Boston Red Sox outfielder, demonstrates bunting as a sacrifice and for an attempted hit; Fred "Dixie" Walker, of the Tigers, the use of the hook slide; Shortstop Luke Appling and Second Baseman Jackie Hayes, of the White Sox, the double play; and Joe Kuhel, Washington, the defensive ability required of a first baseman.

Ace hurlers who star in the new picture are Ted Lyons, of the White Sox; Tommy Bridges, Detroit; Lefty Gomez and Charley Ruffing, New York; Bob Feller and Johnny Allen, of the Cleveland Indians.

Styles of the leading sluggers, Charley Gehring, Detroit second sacker, who holds the titles of batting champion and the most valuable players in the league, and home-run hitters such as Joe DiMaggio, Yankee outfielder, Rudy York, Tiger catcher, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Hank Greenberg and Hal Trosky, New York, Boston, Detroit and Cleveland first basemen, also are analyzed. Slow motion and a device known technically as the "frozen frame", which stops the action momentarily, are employed to illustrate the more important points.

School Shown

Included in the film this year are views of the baseball school maintained by the American League for boys under 17 years old, the All-Star Game in Washington and the World Series. There are also several problem plays to sharpen the eye of the spectator. Another new feature is the inclusion of several sequences depicting the hobbies of the world champion New York Yankees.

METHODIST CHURCH HAS FULL WEEK OF SERVICES

Special Holy Week services in the First Methodist Episcopal church will open with a devotional period at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, followed by the motion picture "The King of Kings."

Holy communion service will be held on Thursday evening. The service will be preceded by baptism for young folk and adults. Special choir music has been arranged.

The Good Friday service will be held in the church at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Robert Kelsey preaching. Other pastors will assist in the service. The Monday Club trio will furnish the music. A sunrise service will be held at 6:30 o'clock on Easter. A pageant, and special vocal and instrumental music will be heard. A large class will be received into the church membership at the regular service at 10:30 a. m. on Easter. Infants will be baptized. Special music and a brief sermon will conclude the Easter service.

All set for a 60-piece band, to be known as "The Ashville Community Band," with Fred Hines as instructor and director. Anyone, young man or lady, (boy or girl) in possession of a band instrument and wishing to join this new organization should communicate with Mr. Hines at an early date. Seasoned musicians are those desired now.

This new band is to form a part of the parade at Circleville on May 9 when the Northwest Territory Caravan visits that city. Get in touch with Mr. Hines very soon. This is important.

Fire Engine Repaired

Fire Chief William Cloud is in Indianapolis taking our fire engine along with him for some necessary repairs. In the meantime the Circleville fire fighting boys are expected to make Ashville a part of their territory and take good care of us just in case we may need their assistance. Council, Mayor or anybody has authorized us to say this but as referee of the Supreme Court we have unlimited authority to give any kind of orders we please. So the Circleville boys will please take notice.

Barber Visitor

Contacted yesterday, in our rounds, a gentleman not old, but has lived 75 years and of these 75, 48 of them have been spent in tonsorial shops a trimming off the locks and shortening the hairs. Said all this happened in Clarksburg where he had for a partner our Harry Heskett who is one of the quartette of barbers we have with us everyday. Told us he came along over with Mrs. Reba Templin who made a call on her sick father, Rev. Ricketts.

Notes of Views

All the early garden making was getting action yesterday. Mrs. Mattie Sample, widow of the late James Sample and a former resident of Ashville, is here visiting with Anna Sample and long time friends. Mrs. Anna Corray is now at home and looking forward to that flock of chickens she hopes to be able to care for this summer and some garden, too. . . . Grove and Rhodes are making some repairs to the roof on their business building and the front is getting its share of better looks. . . . Hunting a gas leak at the home of A. W. Graham a couple of days ago cost the price of two window panes. Mrs. Graham was using a lighted match in her search for the leak and an explosion occurred which fortunately did but little damage other than breaking of the windows. She was only slightly burned. . . . School board in session yesterday evening transacted no business except pay bills. There is a vacancy in the teaching staff which will be taken care of at a later date.

Japan Building Mighty Fleet, U. S. Office Told

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—The navy department has been informed that Japan is constructing a fleet of new-type super-cruisers that may revolutionize naval tactics, it was learned today.

The new cruisers, described as powerful "hit and run" warships have no match from the standpoints of speed, mobility and striking power, this government has been advised.

It is reported that Japan has three such vessels under construction. They are said to be between 16,000 and 18,000 tons each, to be armed with eight or nine 12-inch guns and to have estimated speeds of 40 knots.

Dairy Scientists Meet June 14 at Ohio State

COLUMBUS, April 13—The American Dairy Science association will meet in Columbus, June 14 to 17, with Ohio State university and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station as joint hosts. All Ohioans interested in the dairy industry are invited.

Most of the sessions will be on the Ohio State campus, with those of the closing day, June 17, scheduled for the experiment station at Wooster. Heading the local committee on arrangements is Prof. Robert B. Stoltz, association secretary and chairman of the university's dairy technology department.

Registration will get under way June 13, early arrivals being invited to attend Ohio State's open-air commencement in the stadium that afternoon. First general session is set for 10 a. m. on June 14.

In addition to the general sessions, sectional meetings will be held each day on manufacturing production, and extension. A symposium on nutrition is one of the features planned.

Social affairs will not be lacking, the first being a reception the night of June 14 with President and Mrs. George W. Rightmire and Dean and Mrs. John F. Cunningham in the receiving line. At noon on June 15 will come the dairy luncheon and that night a program of entertainment. The annual banquet is set for the night of June 16, at which time two Myers, when we could get him, told the "oppositional boys" how really bad they were. And Allen, an old Circleville boy, knew how to do a good job of telling 'em.

Nazis Indict Him

THE Nazi campaign against foes continues with the latest target being Archduke Otto Hapsburg, the pretender to the once proud Austrian throne. According to reports from Vienna, Otto has been indicted for high treason and a warrant issued for his "extradition." Under German law high treason is punishable by death. Otto consequently would be liable to arrest and trial for his life if he ever appeared on German territory, which is not likely now.

SCIOTO YOUTHS ELECT NEAL AS NEW 4-H CHIEF

Twenty-six Scioto township boys attended a meeting in the township school Tuesday night for organization of the "Up and Comin'" 4-H club. The club members raise livestock.

Officers elected were Lawrence Neal, president; Russell Rogers, Jr., vice president; Emerson Sheets, secretary; Dwight Hahn, treasurer; and Harold Green, reporter. E. C. Neal is club leader, and William Rush, assistant. The club selected the first and third Tuesday of each month for meetings.

CRITES CANNING COMPANY PLANS MUCH ACTIVITY

Ashville canning plant of the Crites Milling Co. is being given a general overhauling and new boilers are being installed. The new boilers are 600 horsepower as compared with 200 horsepower in the old units.

The firm expects to have about 700 acres in peas this year, about the same as last year. Some of the early peas are about four inches high. With favorable weather conditions the harvest on the

DIRECTED RULING FAVORS TOWERS IN DAMAGE SUIT

Directed verdict in favor of Dr. O. J. Towers, Circleville dentist, was returned by a Common Pleas court jury, Tuesday afternoon, in the $2,431 damage action brought against him by Howard Colaw, Jackson township.

Motion for the directed verdict was filed after the plaintiff had completed introduction of testimony. It was sustained by the judge. It was contended the testimony for the plaintiff was insufficient to prove a case as required under the law.

William Schleich, Monroe township, was jury foreman.

ASHVILLE PLANS BAND TO ASSIST IN MAY 9 FETE

Fred Hines Busy Seeking Candidates For Places In Organization

SIXTY MEMBERS ASKED

Other News Notes From Village, Community

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

All set for a 60-piece band, to be known as "The Ashville Community Band," with Fred Hines as instructor and director. Anyone, young man or lady, (boy or girl) in possession of a band instrument and wishing to join this new organization should communicate with Mr. Hines at an early date. Seasoned musicians are those desired now.

This new band is to form a part of the parade at Circleville on May 9 when the Northwest Territory Caravan visits that city. Get in touch with Mr. Hines very soon. This is important.

Fire Engine Repaired

Fire Chief William Cloud is in Indianapolis taking our fire engine along with him for some necessary repairs. In the meantime the Circleville fire fighting boys are expected to make Ashville a part of their territory and take good care of us just in case we may need their assistance. Council, Mayor or anybody has authorized us to say this but as referee of the Supreme Court we have unlimited authority to give any kind of orders we please. So the Circleville boys will please take notice.

—Ashville

Barber Visitor

Contacted yesterday, in our rounds, a gentleman not old, but has lived 75 years and of these 75, 48 of them have been spent in tonsorial shops a trimming of the locks and shortening the hairs. Said all this happened in Clarksburg where he had for a partner our Harry Heskett who is one of the quartette of barbers we have with us everyday. Told us he came along over with Mrs. Reba Templin who made a call on her sick father, Rev. Ricketts.

Notes of Views

All the early garden making was getting action yesterday. . . Mrs. Mattie Sample, widow of the late James Sample, is a former resident of Ashville, is here visiting with Anna Sample and long time friends. . . Mrs. Anna Corray is now at home and looking forward to that flock of chickens she hopes to be able to care for this summer and some garden, too. . . Grove and Rhodes are making some repairs to the roof on their business building and the front is getting its share of better looks. . . Hunting a gas leak at the home of A. W. Graham a couple of days ago cost the price of two window panes. Mrs. Graham was using a lighted match in her search for the leak and an explosion occurred which fortunately did but little damage other than breaking of the windows. She was only slightly burned. . . School board in session yesterday evening transacted no business except pay bills. There is a vacancy in the teaching staff which will be taken care of at a later date.

—Ashville

Politics Talked

Met my old time friend Howard Sweetman here in town today and we weren't along very far in our visiting, until we drifted back into "the good old days" when political campaigns amounted to something and were worthwhile. Put Grover Cleveland in twice by raising a lot of hickory poles with roosters perched on top and the flag there,

Japan Building Mighty Fleet, U. S. Office Told

WASHINGTON, April 13—(UP)—The navy department has been informed that Japan is constructing a fleet of new-type super-cruisers that may revolutionize naval tactics, it was learned today.

The new cruisers, described as powerful "hit and run" warships have no match from the standpoints of speed, mobility and striking power, this government has been advised.

It is reported that Japan has three such vessels under construction. They are said to be between 16,000 and 18,000 tons each, to be armed with eight or nine 12-inch guns and to have estimated speeds of 40 knots.

TO START BUILDING

THE housing problem, the prosperity of the building trades and the revival of general business all seem involved in a project Mayor La Guardia has laid before New York labor leaders.

There is available, he explained, $50,000,000 for a private housing plan, attributed to John D. Rockefeller. It can go ahead provided organized labor gives assurances regarding hours, wages and general cooperation, so that the enterprise can proceed without risk of delay and interference.

There is no desire to beat down wages, he explains; but the undertakers have to know what the wages are going to be, and that they are going to get full value for their money, so as to get the construction done on a basis that will make the completed properties a paying investment.

He reminds the labor leaders that wages in the building trades are pitched high because the work is mostly seasonal, and the workers have to make in a few months enough to live on for a year. He says he can promise three years' employment if the workers can moderate their hourly pay for the sake of continuous work in which they would make more money per year.

Thus they would have steady incomes and builders would be encouraged to do more building. If the system should spread, there could develop a building boom of national proportions, providing prosperity for years to the building trades and many other industries. New York itself could plan for nearly $70,000,000 worth of public building on such terms, he added.

Such proposals anywhere, made by responsible people, reserve careful and friendly consideration.

HOE PLUS AD

THERE are people today with orange juice for breakfast almost every morning who, when they were children, had oranges only on Christmas day as a very special treat. There are several reasons for the change, and cooperation and advertising are two of them.

According to Ralph H. Taylor, executive secretary of the California Agricultural Council, a group of California farmers bought their first full page of newspaper advertising just thirty years ago. They advertised oranges in an Iowa paper. That season Iowans bought 50 per cent more oranges.

At the present time forty California farm cooperatives are paying for advertising that will help 70 producers. Between 1938 and 1908, these groups have spent $25,000,000 for advertising. National consumption of oranges has doubled. "The man with the hoe," remarks Mr.

EMBARGO MOVE BLOCKED

WASHINGTON—An amazing story has just leaked out telling how state department career men blocked a last minute move to lift the embargo on arms to Spain, a move which was under consideration by the President.

The background of the story is a growing conviction on the part of the President, Secretary Hull, and several powerful Congressional leaders, including Senator Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Borah, that the embargo on arms to Spain was one of the most tragic mistakes of American foreign policy.

Its effect has been to deny war weapons to the Spanish Government while Franco's Fascists have been equipped with the most modern tanks, airplanes and artillery that Germany and Italy could offer. Of late, the Spanish army has been fighting literally with its bare fists, while Spanish gold reserves remain in New York banks, ample to purchase arms were it not for the embargo.

Roosevelt and Hull both have deplored the situation privately and felt that the United States were merely playing into the hands of Hitler and Mussolini. But until recently they did nothing.

SAVE SPAIN

Then, just before he went to Warm Springs two weeks ago, the President had a talk with Breckinridge Long, former Assistant Secretary of State, who as Ambassador to Italy was thoroughly familiar with Fascist arms. Long pointed out that there were provisions in the Neutrality Act permitting Roosevelt to lift the Spanish embargo, and urged that he do so. Roosevelt suggested that Ambassador Long see Hull, and called the Secretary of State personally to arrange the appointment.

The interview with Hull took place next morning. But when Long arrived at the State Department he was confronted with a letter which Hull had written to Raymond Leslie Buell of the Foreign Policy Association, outlining reasons why he could not lift the embargo.

The letter had been released to the press by Hull on the same afternoon that he had received the President's telephone call making an appointment regarding the Spanish embargo.

Naturally Ambassador Long asked for an explanation.

"Oh, that was just a letter that Hackworth gave me to sign," replied the Secretary of State, inferring that he had not paid much attention to it. (Green H. Hackworth is the legal adviser of the state department.)

PRO-FRANCO

Ambassador Long then pointed out that the United States was playing into the hands of European Fascists, that after the Loyalists were defeated, Germany planned to move into Czechoslovakia, that it was not too late even now to save the Spanish Government if the United States lifted the embargo.

CHAPTER 27

NOT SO many months ago Tommy Minton had been saying everywhere that he would get even with Garry Page because Garry had socked him one night. It was this thought that returned to mock and torment Barbara as she sat by the fire at the Worthington lodge, listening to the low, clear call of the siren, as Garry's car came nearer and nearer.

Odd to remember now that it was a matter concerning her over which Garry had been so chivalrous. Could Tommy Minton be endeavoring to get even with Garry now by taking away his girl, playing up to the lovely, glamorous Wenda?

Barbara decided she might be acting mentally melodramatic but she could not throw off the sense of fear that stayed in the outskirts of the great room where the shadows were thickest.

Yet, when the late comers came in, she forgot that fear completely. Lights were turned higher, greetings were cheerful. And a little boy, stifling a yawn, came rushing to her.

"Hello, Miss Kingsley, I'm here. You brought me!" Robert Kerns was grinning at her delightedly, as though no doubt of the splendid welcome he would receive had ever entered his mind.

"Oh Bobbie, bless your heart, now everything's perfect! You know we were scared to pieces because we just had 13 and now it's right!" She was helping him out of his coat and leggings, and the simple task restored her poise so she acknowledged the greetings of the others gaily and impersonally.

"I'm afraid that it was a dreadful imposition to bring along a child," Wenda was saying to Natalie, and Barbara hurried the little boy away so he wouldn't overhear. "But, you see, he was awake when I stopped by the apartment after the theater, and he had had a nightmare. All of a sudden he got some sort of horrible notion that he couldn't stay alone, so Garry insisted he had to come along."

"Of course he had to come!" Natalie said. "Do you want to slip into something more comfortable? We're having some hot chocolate and sandwiches around the fire."

Bobbie went straight to bed. Wenda changed her traveling suit for sea green velvet pajamas. Sitting in the shadows, Barbara reflected that Wenda would see always that she added her note of beauty. The depth of color in the pajamas suited the luxury of the great oaked room with its dark leather, fur rugs and massive chairs. Wenda would not mind that others waited for her—whether she changed husbands or frocks—knowing that inevitably she would reward them in the end. She was a gay parasol for a sunny day, Barbara mused. And she, Barbara Kingsley, was a steadfast umbrella for a rainy day—so Natalie once had said.

Barbara went to bed, clothed in a feeling that she, the guests, the house were not real. It was a sense feeling, one that softened the edges of any hurt by holding it at a distance. She was still in bed when Bobbie came rushing up, dressed for skiing. When he saw Barbara's gaiety he stopped, puzzled, and she smiled at him as she answered Garry. "I'm not having bacon and eggs. It's wheat cakes." She began to pour the batter but a door into her mind swung open, showing her other Sunday mornings when Garry had come whistling up the long steps, the newspapers under his arm, to have a late breakfast with her. She took her strength and pushed and pushed against that door but it would not shut.

"Babbs, my beautiful one, could you make me just one cake, please?" Garry was pleading with the old mirth and contentment in his eyes.

No answer was required. Wenda, in rose flannel this morning, had heard. She intervened. "Garry, you pig! You asked me for creamed eggs and beef. Cakes, my lad, digest like rocks. You aren't having any!"

But Garry only looked at her lazily and his voice held a thread of the old, lovable impudence when he answered, "Not Barbara's cakes, Wenda. They digest like rockets! You soar, my angel, up among the clouds and the stars."

While the world still wonders just who started the last World war all Europe seems bent on grabbing off the dishonor of starting the next one.

the next morning when Natalie rapped at her door, and entered carrying a pair of orange velvet pajamas banded in gray squirrel. "For you, with love," her hostess said. She tossed them on the bed. "Wear them down to breakfast and shine. They take high color, honey, and with that hair of yours you should look glorious."

"Bobbie will think they are swell!"

"Bobbie, my eye! It won't hurt Garry any to notice you are moving around quite comfortably."

Stretching lazily under the silken comforter Barbara answered: "No, Natalie, if love's a game, I'm not playing. I know easier ones where it doesn't make much difference when you lose. And I'm cured, anyway. But I adore the pajamas. May I wear them just the same?"

She wore the pajamas. She wore, too, a gay, new mood when she entered the dining room where most of the guests were already gathered. Electric grills and chaffing dishes were arranged on a long table. Two maids presided over the coffee urn, the chocolate pot, the toaster.

"We're each preparing our own breakfast," Natalie explained. "Choose what you want—batter cakes, bacon, hash, sausages—"

Barbara noticed that Jimmy Minton was not yet down. She was relieved. He was an inharmonious note. He frightened her, even here with yellow jonquils, imported from the town greenhouses, in every copper bowl; log fires roaring on the hearths in the great rooms; white light and blue light, from the snow fields and the pond and sky, coming through the wide windows from which the brown curtains were pulled back this morning.

Garry smiled at her and his eyes crinkled with the old laughter lines. He looked a little thinner—she who always was lithe and strong and ready. Maybe she imagined it, she decided. He had enough to make him worry, though.

"You look too gorgeous to cook bacon and eggs," he was saying to her.

Bobbie came rushing up, dressed for skiing. When he saw Barbara's gaiety he stopped, puzzled, and she smiled at him as she answered Garry. "I'm not having bacon and eggs. It's wheat cakes."

She began to pour the batter but a door into her mind swung open, showing her other Sunday mornings when Garry had come whistling up the long steps, the newspapers under his arm, to have a late breakfast with her. She took her strength and pushed and pushed against that door but it would not shut.

As she went out the door, Barbara had a glimpse of Garry's face. It looked a little drawn, and his eyes were stern. He didn't approve of Jimmy Minton's interest in Wenda. That was sure.

Life, Romance, Work of Curies Full of Thrills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OUT OF THE welter of half-baked books, out of the milling mass of shrill specious celebrities of our times, comes one arresting volume, the record of two noble lives—"Madame Curie"—which tells of the life work of Marie and Pierre Curie, the discoverers of radium.

Their was a strange mixture of romanticism, mysticism and hard-headed scientific ability. How the two sensitive souls who had ruled love and marriage out of their lives that they might bring independence to their vocation, suddenly found their souls fused in a passionate love affair, how mutually stirred by the imaginative possibilities of Becquerel's discovery of a spontaneous emanation of rays from uranium salts, how in a miserable old shed, with crude apparatus, stirring all day long a mass in ebullition in a cauldron with an iron rod nearly as big as herself, the best and happiest years of Mme. Curie's life were spent, how they naively wondered "what IT would look like," never losing faith in "ITS" existence or their ability to isolate it; how Pierre hoped "IT" would have a beautiful color, how finally, 45 months after they announced its probable existence, Marie isolated a decigram of pure radium, how by a happy accident Becquerel found, as he was carrying a piece around in his pocket, that it would destroy skin tissue and they knew that their

was not deeply moved by this story.

Decision as to Ownership
But the finest part of all, to me, is the decision they made as to their ownership of radium. Pierre had received a letter from some technicians in America who wanted to exploit radium.

"We have two choices," he explained. "We can describe the results of our research without reserve, including the processes of purification—"

Marie made a mechanical gesture of approval—

"Yes, naturally."
"Or else we can consider ourselves the 'inventors,' patent the technique of treating pitch blende and assure ourselves of the rights over the manufacture of radium throughout the world."

Marie said, "It is impossible. It would be contrary to the scientific spirit."

To appease his conscience, to be certain that she understood all the implications of the decision, Pierre dwelt on it, mentioning that dream of their hearts.

"We could have a fine laboratory, too."

Marie thought this over and said, "Physicists always publish their researches completely. If our discovery has a commercial future, that is an accident by which we must not profit. And radium is going to be of use in treating disease. It is impossible to take advantage of that."

Poems That Live

THE FLIGHT OF LOVE

When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered,
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Love accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendor
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruined cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell.

When hearts have once mingled,
Lose first leaves the well-built nest;
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possessed.
O Love! who bevailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your home, and your bier?

Its passions will rock thee

As the storms rock the raven on high!

Bright reason will mock thee,
Like the sun from a wintry sky.
From their nest every rafter
Will rot, and thine eagle home
Leave thee naked to laughter,
When leaves fall and cold winds come.

World At A Glance

A NEW NOTE is being struck in the financial centers of the world. As one of the financial columns in New York remarked, it is time that we stop blaming politicians or fear for depressions, or to expect their panaceas to lift us out of them.

If not, there can be no solution. The depression has been deepening because, in the spirit of nationalism that is sweeping the world, each nation is trying to "live upon itself," and try to maintain jacked-up prices on its own commodities. No nation in the world is wealthy enough to follow such a policy, yet that is the policy being followed in nearly every country, no matter its politics or its form of government.

There is only one thing, economists point out, that maintains prices, and that is trade. And there is only one thing that creates business, a Wall Street column points out, and that is purchasing power. And purchasing power is gained only through trade and participation of the entire populace in equal measure in that trade.

The new government pump priming is seen as an effective stimulant, but not as a basic cure.

A PRIVATE BOYCOTT?
As if barriers set up by nations themselves were not enough, American and British oil companies, the most powerful in the world, are reported to have placed a world-wide boycott on any firm or persons buying or selling Mexican oil.

That is in retaliation for the Mexican government's seizure of their Mexican properties for failure to comply with a Mexican supreme court decision on labor agreements.

The American government concedes that the Mexican government acted within its rights (but too abruptly), and is trying to collect full indemnity. The American government itself adopted retaliation, by stopping the purchase of Mexican silver, plunging Mexico into a worse financial crisis than ever—and arousing a wave of nationalism that may bring an fascist government to our very doorstep, with possible confiscation of all American properties.

Since then, however, the U. S. government has been trying to arrive at a reasonable basis for settlement.

These international problems are too delicate, and affect too many millions of persons, to be swayed by private financial interests, some of the apprehensive-minded diplomats are saying.

The oil companies have been accused, in the past, of bringing about wars. Now, these observers say, they seem to be trying to prove that this is true.

They already are under fire for asserting having supplied oil evidently used on the Fascist side in Spain by Italy, while the American neutrality act was clamped down tightly on munitions shipments to the Loyalist side.

That situation was not likely to involve the United States, however questionable, if true, but a private boycott on a large neighbor nation with whom the United States is supposed to have friendly relations is a highly dangerous thing, observers assert.

Bobbie went straight to bed. Wenda changed her traveling suit for sea green velvet pajamas. Sitting in the shadows, Barbara reflected that Wenda would see always that she added her note of beauty. The depth of color in the pajamas suited the luxury of the great oiled room with its dark leather, fur rugs and massive chairs. Wenda would not mind that others waited for her—whether she changed husbands or rocks—knowing that inevitably she would reward them in the end. She was a gay paragon for a sunny day, Barbara mused. And she, Barbara Kingsley, was a steadfast umbrella for a rainy day—so Natalie once had said.

Barbara went to bed, clothed in a feeling that she, the guests, the house were not real. It was a nice feeling, one that softened the edges of any hurt by holding it at a distance. She was still in bed the next morning when Natalie rapped at her door, and entered a pair of orange velvet pajamas banded in gray squirrel. "For you, with love," her hostess said. She tossed them on the bed. "Wear them down to breakfast and shine. They take high color, honey, and with that hair of yours you should look glorious."

"Bobbie will think they are swell!"

"Bobbie, my eye! It won't hurt Garry any to notice you are moving around quite comfortably."

Stretching lazily under the silken comforter, Barbara answered: "No, Natalie, if love's a game, I'm not playing. I know easier ones where it doesn't make much difference when you lose. And I'm cured, anyway. But I adore the pajamas. May I wear them just the same?"

She wore the pajamas. She wore, too, a gay, new mood when she entered the dining room where most of the guests were already gathered. Electric grills and chafing dishes were arranged on a long table. Two maids presided over the coffee urn, the chocolate pot, the toaster.

"We're each preparing our own breakfast," Natalie explained. "Choose what you want—batter cakes, bacon, hash, sausages—"

Barbara noticed that Jimmy Minton was not yet down. She was relieved. He was an inharmonious note. He frightened her, even here with yellow jongs, imported from the town greenhouses, in every copper bowl; log fires roaring on the hearths in the great rooms; white light and blue light, from the snow fields and the pond and sky, coming through the wide windows from which the brown curtains were pulled back this morning.

Garry smiled at her and his eyes crinkled with the old laughter lines. He looked a little thinner—he who always was lithe and strong and ready. Maybe she imagined it, she decided. He had thought to make him worry, though.

"You look too gorgeous to cook bacon and eggs," he was saying to her.

Bobbie came rushing up, dressed for skiing. When he saw Barbara's gaiety he stopped, puzzled, and she smiled at him as she answered Garry. "I'm not having bacon and eggs. It's wheat cakes." She began to pour the batter but a door into her mind swung open, showing her other Sunday mornings when Garry had come whistling up the long steps, the newspapers under his arm, to have a late breakfast with her. She took all her strength and pushed and pushed against that door but it would not shut.

"Babbs, my beautiful one, could you make me just one cake, please?" Garry was pleading with the old mirth and contentment in his eyes.

No answer was required. Wenda, in rose flannel this morning, had heard. She intervened. "Garry, you pig! You asked me for creamed eggs and beef. Cakes, my lad, digest like rocks. You aren't having any!"

But Garry only looked at her lazily and his voice held a thread of the old, lovable impudence when he answered. "Not Barbara's cakes, Wenda. They digest like rocks! You soar, my angel, up among the clouds and the stars."

I'll take two of them, Barbara." If it was her possessiveness that she was trying to demonstrate, Wenda would have no interference with which to reckon, Barbara decided. She reached into the scabbard of her mind where she kept light words—words you never needed for any serious subject, like love and tomorrow and what you would do when a play was done. "I'm feeding Bobbie," she said. "Sausages or bacon, honey? Better drink all of your orange juice."

And she smiled wickedly as she saw Garry accept a plate of golden and snow white creamed eggs, remembering that he loathed eggs and he loathed cream sauces.

However, she smiled, he adored Wenda so he probably would like these eggs. She made no cakes for herself. Fruit juice and coffee suddenly were enough. Jimmy Minton came down, and called gaily to all of them, and then looked at Wenda.

"Can you work again?" he asked.

"Of course. What shall it be?" The millionaire playboy, whose eyelids were puffy and whose chin sagged with years, and a strain that was too great even for those years, looked at Bobbie's cakes. "Just what you gave your nephew."

Bobbie looked at the man and cleared his throat. He was going to explain that his aunt had not made his cakes, but Wenda's voice, gay and sweet and rich, spoke before he could begin.

"How many cakes can you eat?"

Maybe Wenda had no interest in the man's digestive system because she was not engaged to him, Barbara told herself. Being in love with Garry, perhaps she honestly had wished to control his diet. Still, she was prompt to please Jimmy Minton.

"Nuti!" Barbara did some talking inwardly. "She didn't want you to re-establish even a culinary contact with the man—"

"Come and eat with me while I eat," Jimmy Minton was saying to Wenda, who perched on the edge of a table and smiled down at him.

"How's the new play coming?" someone called to Garry.

"Fast," he answered. "The second act's shooting along."

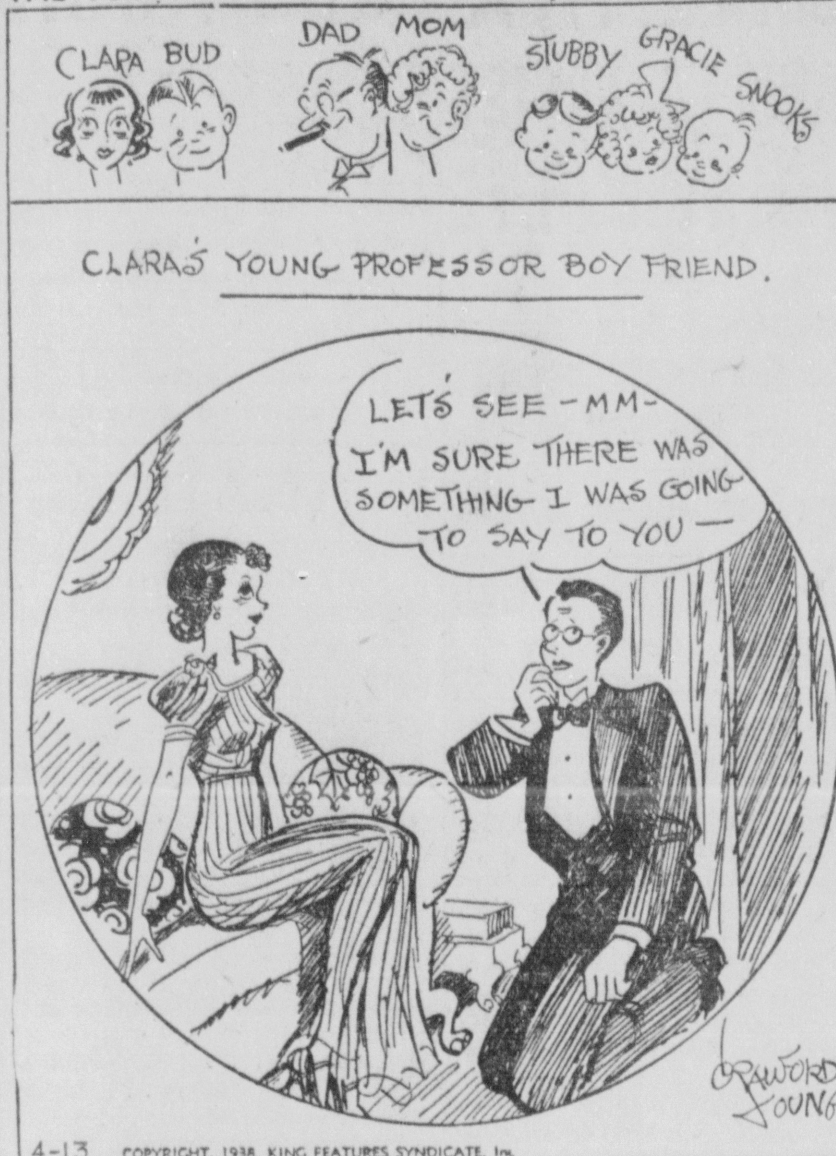

Barbara did not know that she kept her eyes on Garry's face for a long time, in her surprise, until he flushed. "I'm doing another, Babbs. Something lighter, to grab the popularity which may blow away like a puffball before tonight's papers, you know."

Garry writing a play in a few weeks! Garry who had slaved and dreamed and despaired and prayed and hoped while the other drama came into being! Garry walking the frothy path that did not touch on themes that came to life only when you slept with them, suffered with them, laughed with them, let them wear you out and bring your heart—

"Come on, Bobbie, I'll change my clothes and we'll ski," Barbara said.

"Gosh, I hoped you would!" As she went out the door, Barbara had a glimpse of Garry's face. It looked a little drawn, and his eyes were stern. He didn't approve of Jimmy Minton's interest in Wenda. That was sure. (To Be Continued)

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OUT OF THE welter of half-baked books, out of the milling mass of shrill specious celebrities of our times, comes one arresting volume, the record of two noble lives—"Madame Curie"—which tells of the life work of Marie and Pierre Curie, the discoverers of radium.

There was a strange mixture of romanticism, mysticism and hard-headed scientific ability. How the two sensitive souls who had ruled love and marriage out of their lives that they might bring independence to their vocation, suddenly found their souls fused in a passionate love affair, how mutually stirred by the imaginative possibilities of Becquerel's discovery of a spontaneous emanation of rays from uranium salts, how in a miserable old shed, with crude apparatus, stirring all day long a mass in ebullition in a cauldron with an iron rod nearly as big as herself, the best and happiest years of Marie Curie's life were spent, how they naively wondered "what IT would look like," never losing faith in "ITS" existence or their ability to isolate it; how Pierre hoped "IT" would have a beautiful color, how finally, 45 months after they announced its probable existence, Marie isolated a decigram of pure radium, how by a happy accident Becquerel found, as he was carrying a piece around in his pocket, that it would destroy skin tissue and they knew that their

was not deeply moved by this story.

Decision as to Ownership
But the finest part of all, to me, is the decision they made as to their ownership of radium. Pierre had received a letter from some technicians in America who wanted to exploit radium.

"We have two choices," he explained. "We can describe the results of our research without reserve, including the processes of purification—"

Marie made a mechanical gesture of approval—"Yes, naturally."

"Or else we can consider ourselves the 'inventors,' patent the technique of treating pitch blende and assure ourselves of the rights over the manufacture of radium throughout the world."

Marie said, "It is impossible. It would be contrary to the scientific spirit."

To appease his conscience, to be certain that she understood all the implications of the decision, Pierre dwelt on it, mentioning that dream of their hearts.

"We could have a fine laboratory, too."

Marie thought this over and said, "Physicists always publish their researches completely. If our discovery has a commercial future, that is an accident by which we must not profit. And radium is going to be of use in treating disease. It is impossible to take advantage of that."

THE FLIGHT OF LOVE

When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered,
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Love accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendor
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruined cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell.

When hearts have once mingled,
Lose first leaves the well-built nest;
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possessed.
O Love! who bewailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your home, and your bier?

Its passions will rock thee

As the storms rock the raven on high!
Bright reason will mock thee,
Like the sun from a wintry sky.
From their nest every rafter
Will rot, and thine eagle home
Leave thee naked to laughter,
When leaves fall and cold winds come.

Dr. J. L. Clifton Speaks As Walnut P.-T. A. Meets

Mrs. F. T. Bowne to Serve As New President

Dr. J. L. Clifton, of Ohio State university, was guest speaker at the meeting of Walnut Parent-Teacher association, Tuesday evening. He used for his topic, "The Philosophy of Education."

He stressed the fact that a good philosophy for rural schools was a good one for all. He mentioned that a good philosophy of education taught the appreciation of beauty, truth and happiness. Dr. Clifton's talk was interesting and entertaining as he emphasized his ideas on education.

During the business hour in charge of Edward Traub, president, officers for the ensuing year were chosen. These include Mrs. F. T. Bowne, president; Mrs. Alvin Barr, vice president; and Miss Ruth Andrews, reelected secretary and treasurer. About 65 members of the association were present for the meeting.

In addition to the talk by Dr. Clifton, three seniors appeared on the program. Miss Blanche Strawser and Miss Grace Hoffman gave readings, and Norman Trapp, an interesting talk on folk music in America, illustrating his remarks with various vocal numbers.

Several members of the freshman literature class, under the direction of Eugene Smith, teacher, presented a short play based on the incident of white-washing the fence as told in the book, "Tom Sawyer," by Mark Twain.

Birthday Surprise

Eugene Mowery was complimented at a surprise dinner recently, the affair being arranged in honor of his 21st birthday anniversary.

Friends and relatives gathered at the Mowery home in Jackson township, and enjoyed a basket dinner at noon, followed by a social afternoon of games and contests. A wiener roast was held at the supper hour. Mr. Mowery received many gifts.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Poling, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughter, Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Poling, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hartman, James Leist, the Misses Jeanne Leist, Mabel Cardiff, Dorothy Poling, Ruth, Joan and Pauline Mowery, Elliott Wells, Vernon George, Charles Dean, Sterling Poling, John Dean, Robert Poling, Mr. and Mrs. N. ## TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

WHEN PLANTS are used for edging in either a formal or semi-formal flower bed, they should be low growing and kept neat in appearance by shearing back.

As shown in this Garden-Graph, such edging plants frequently grow so vigorously as to get out of bounds and then they need to be clipped or sheared back to keep them in compact, formal or semi-formal lines.

Certain plants used for borders can be made to produce continuous bloom by merely keeping them sheared back. This removes the old blooms before they can go to seed, and the plant then keeps sending out new blooms. Among the plants which can be converted to continuous blooming by the simple method of shearing are Sweet Alyssum, Ageratum and the gray foliage plant, Nepeta Mussini, which is a member of the catnip family.

Spring is the time to start dahlias into active growth, if you wish to grow dahlias from cuttings. Place the tubers in a box of damp sand, with their eyes just below the surface, in a warm, light place indoors or under glass. Be careful not to let the tubers dry out.

Ruppert's Kansas Citians Expected to Be Speedy

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 13—(UP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, millionaire owner of the world champion New York Yankees, doesn't tolerate losers. For that reason count the Kansas City Blues in the thick of the American Association pennant chase all the way.

The Yankees took the Kansas City franchise at the close of last season as an extension of their farm system. They immediately began a rebuilding program and only two players who were on the Blues' roster throughout last year remain.

The holdovers are Eldon Brees, who likely will be the first string catcher, and Ralph Boyle, a fine outfielder. Brees hit .303 in 1937 and Boyle's batting mark was .315.

To back up Brees, the Blues have Bill Baker, last year with Oakland, and Bill Holm, obtained from Birmingham.

Koy Good Hitter

Boyle likely will win one outfield

SEABISCUIT AND ADMIRAL TO RUN DECORATION DAY

NEW YORK, April 13—(UP)—

The richest two-horse race in history was clinched for Belmont Park today when the owners of War Admiral and Seabiscuit consented to match their champions Memorial day for a $100,000 winner take all—purse.

Last obstacle to the eagerly awaited meeting was cleared when Charles Sam Howard, owner of last year's handicap champion Seabiscuit, agreed to the May 30 date specified by the Westchester Racing association in offering the huge purse. Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral, three-year-old king of 1937, did not find the Spring date as desirable as the previously suggested September one, but accepted nevertheless.

The race will be at a mile and one-quarter, each horse carrying 126 pounds.

Skeptics, who were convinced yesterday that the match never would be made could hardly believe that there had been an agreement. Their first surprise came when the Westchester board of directors put up the $100,000 prize. Most racing followers believed that the new date would not be acceptable to Howard because Seabiscuit had been entered in the $50,000 Hollywood cup July 16, and in three August stake races at Saratoga.

Bowling News

Coca Cola Bowlers had easy sailing in three contests with the Container Corporation team, Tuesday evening, the loser tallying only 2,201 pins with 122 handicap included. F. Lynch's 544 and Art McGran's 522 led the pin parade.

The Industrial league season closes this evening with the Gold Cliff Letties and the fast-stepping Yates-Sinclair quintets tangling. The Letties have clinched the championship.

This farm is located along State Route 56 about 7 miles West of Circleville, Ohio.

There is practically a new seven room dwelling house on the farm with all modern improvements, to be given with a barn and other out buildings.

This farm is being sold under the provisions of the will of William A. Hulse deceased. Possession will be given on day of sale except that part of the farm now sown in wheat. The possession of the wheat land will be given after harvest and the balance after harvest.

The purchaser will be required to pay 10 per cent of the selling price on the day of sale and will be given thirty days to make payment of the balance.

The premises have been appraised at $90 per acre and can not be sold for less than two thirds of the appraisement. The purchaser will be required to pay the June 1938 taxes on the premises.

Ruppert's Kansas Citians Expected to Be Speedy

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 13—(UP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, millionaire owner of the world champion New York Yankees, doesn't tolerate losers. For that reason count the Kansas City Blues in the thick of the American Association pennant chase all the way. The Yanks took the Kansas City franchise at the close of last season as an extension of their farm system. They immediately began a rebuilding program and only two players who were on the Blues' roster throughout last year remain.

The holdovers are Eldon Brees, who likely will be the first string catcher, and Ralph Boyle, a fine outfielder. Brees hit .303 in 1937 and Boyle's batting mark was .315.

To back up Brees, the Blues have Bill Baker, last year with Oakland, and Bill Holm, obtained from Birmingham.

SEABISCUIT AND ADMIRAL TO RUN DECORATION DAY

NEW YORK, April 13—(UP)—The richest two-horse race in history was clinched for Belmont Park today when the owners of War Admiral and Seabiscuit consented to match their champions Memorial day for a $100,000 winner take all—purse.

Last obstacle to the eagerly awaited meeting was cleared when Charles Sam Howard, owner of last year's handicap champion Seabiscuit, agreed to the May 30 date specified by the Westchester Racing association in offering the huge purse. Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral, three-year-old king of 1937, did not find the Spring date as desirable as the previously suggested September one, but accepted nevertheless.

The race will be at a mile and one-quarter, each horse carrying 126 pounds.

Skeptics, who were convinced yesterday that the match never would be made could hardly believe that there had been an agreement. Their first surprise came when the Westchester board of directors put up the $100,000 prize. Most racing followers believed that the new date would not be acceptable to Howard because Seabiscuit had been entered in the $50,000 Hollywood cup July 16, and in three August stake races at Saratoga.

Bowling News

Coca Cola Bowlers had easy sailing in three contests with the Container Corporation team, Tuesday evening, the loser tallying only 2,201 pins with 122 handicap included. F. Lynch's 544 and Art McGran's 522 led the pin parade. The Industrial league season closes this evening with the Gold Cliff Lefties and the fast-stepping Yates-Sinclair quintets tangling. The Lefties have clinched the championship.

This farm is located at the State Route 56 about 7 miles West of Circleville, Ohio. There is practically a new seven room dwelling house on the farm with all modern improvements, together with a barn and other out buildings.

This farm is being sold under the provisions of the will of William A. Hulse deceased. Possession will be given on day of sale except that part of the farm now sown in wheat, the possession of the wheat land will be given after harvest and the wheat threshed. Terms of sale: The purchaser will be required to pay 10 per cent of the selling price on the day of sale and will be given thirty days to make payment of the balance.

The premises have been appraised at $90 per acre and can not be sold for less than two thirds of the appraisement. The purchaser will be required to pay the June 1938 taxes on the premises.

Joe To Remain On West Coast, Family Says
As Season Nears

$25,000 ANTE TOO LOW

New York Star In Perfect Condition To Play

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13—(UP)—Joe DiMaggio will not be present at Boston, April 19 when the New York Yankees open their American League campaign unless he receives by mail or telephone an offer of $40,000 from Col. Jake Ruppert, a spokesman for the athlete said today.

There was no indication from the colonel that he has increased his last offer of $25,000. Unless DiMaggio catches a train today he cannot get to Boston by Monday except by airplane. The spokesman said DiMaggio would not fly.

Thus at 23 Joe, who not long ago was going out with the fishing fleets to help his father and brothers support the family, has chosen to decline $25,000 a year.

Joe's last word on the subject was this:

"I've told the colonel what I want—$40,000 a year. I'm staying in San Francisco unless I get it."

Joe was at a house party at San Rafael, across the bay from San Francisco last night. Members of his family confirmed the fact that Joe has no intention of giving in on the money issue.

"Joe's not going anywhere," one of his brothers said. "He hasn't made any train reservations. And today's the last day he could leave to make the opening game on time. I guess it's up to Col. Ruppert now because he knows where Joe stands."

Joe trained with the San Francisco Seals at Wanford, Cal., until two weeks ago. He believes himself in excellent condition.

IF YOUR partner jumps your suit to game at some stage of the bidding, he doesn't necessarily show a lot of honor strength. Don't reach out aimlessly for a slam. Pause first to consider what he did on earlier rounds. Perhaps he merely has a great distributional fit with your suit, especially if he passed on his first turn.

The bidding started with North in the third position. He called 1-Club, East 1-Diamond, South 1-Spade, North 3-Clubs, and South with his singleton diamond, support for clubs and fair strength in the other two suits, decided he had sufficient strength to take the hand to game. North then took the contract to 6-Clubs.

North had no possible way to avoid losing two tricks in the trump suit, so was defeated one trick.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the lead of the heart A, how should South proceed to make 4-Spades?

ELECTRIFICATION WORK MAY START IN SOUTHWESTERN DISTRICT IN FALL

LIGHT COMPANY ASKS LOAN FOR HUGE PROJECT

Mt. Pleasant Men Informed That Utility's Survey Has Been Completed

100 ATTEND DISCUSSION

Karl Herrmann And Meeker Terwilliger Speak

Estimates for the construction of electric lines in the southwestern portion of Pickaway county are being prepared by the Ohio-Midland Light & Power Co., and as soon as they are completed an effort will be made to obtain funds for construction. This information was given to members of the Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood, Tuesday evening, by John H. Lee, of Canal Winchester, chief construction engineer of the company. Mr. Lee said that approximately 27 miles of roads in Wayne and Deercreek townships have been surveyed. The project has been roughly estimated at $34,000. All preliminary surveys have been completed.

May Start in Fall If the company is successful in borrowing funds for the project, work will be started in the fall, Mr. Lee believed. He said the company at the present time has sufficient construction work on hand to last until August. Mr. Lee contacted officials of the R. E. A. and learned that it would be at least another year before any rural electrification project could be started in that district.

The project being boosted by the Brotherhood is in the district south of Route 22 between Deer creek and Route 104. Lack of progress on the part of the Rural Electrification Administration prompted the action of the Brotherhood.

About 100 persons attended the Brotherhood meeting. Karl Herrmann, Circleville's safety director, spoke on his recent trip to Europe. Meeker Terwilliger, Circleville attorney and chairman of the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9, urged the brotherhood to participate in the event. Williamsport plans to have a float in the parade. C. C. Chappelear, who taught school more than 50 years ago in the Mt. Pleasant district, was introduced.

The Brotherhood was served a spaghetti dinner by Frank A. Mannarino, Chillicothe. Members of the supper and program committee were William D. Radcliff, chairman, H. W. Campbell, Lee Luellen, Clarke Smith, Donald Morgan, Joseph S. Varney, S. B. Metzger, George Lemay and George Bochart. E. C. Rector is president of the organization.

Library Notes

Hector Bolitho, (whose biography of King Edward VIII is still among the most called for books at the Circleville Library), is the logical person to write the story of King George VI. Recognized as the leading authority on the history of the British Royal Family, Bolitho has also written books on Queen Victoria, Edward VII, the Prince Consort, and Windsor Castle.

In the preparation of this new biography, which starts with George's boyhood, and continues through his coronation, Bolitho has had access to much material and many interviews, not available to other writers.

This book is the first April addition to the local library.

Though a younger country than the United States, Australia years ago met and worked out certain economic and social problems that today are the concern of America. A new book "Australia Advances," by David M. Dow, reviews many questions of immediate interest to thoughtful Americans.

Thirteen years' experience as an Australian government official in the United States have given Mr. Dow unusual opportunities to contrast conditions in his home land with those in the United States.

Loan Program Favored

The United Press was informed that last night's conferees were "pretty well agreed" on a $1,500,000 non-interest bearing loan program to finance a new public works program. Mr. Roosevelt earlier refused to say whether he would draw on sterilized gold funds of more than $1,000,000,000 to help pay those bills. That would mollify the economy-minded conservatives. He also contemplates a $1,250,000,000 unemployment relief appropriation for the first seven months of the next fiscal year. That would provide for the jobless up to Feb. 1, 1939.

Summoned to the White House last night for a conference of which no intimation had been given at a press conference a few hours before were Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Postmaster General James A. Farley. They were joined by Chairman Jesse H. Jones of RFC, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Early and James Roosevelt, another White House secretary. They deliberated from shortly after 8 p. m. until near midnight.

Hull's presence was explained by Mr. Roosevelt's intention to make his fireside chat comprehensive in covering the whole range of relief and contrasting the economic situation here with conditions abroad where many nations have been able to absorb the unemployed by speeding up armaments manufacture.

Conditions Explained

The President's advisers told him that American business needed quick assistance and at least some of them came away from the White House convinced that their chief agreed with their rather gloomy diagnosis of current conditions.

In last night's conference he seemed to be consolidating New Deal lines both for an attack on depression and to repel conservative raiders. Congressional dispute is likely to develop around spending and lending methods and the projects and areas to which new money shall be allocated rather than over the question of disbursements themselves. A party in power which goes into a general election in a depression year has precedents for anxiety.

Some loud congressional voices are raised for economy and others recall the warning of the late Sen. Joe T. Robinson, uttered shortly before his death last August, that legislators ultimately would be called to account by their constituents for continued spending and deficits.

Vice President Garner's "blow up" at the White House Monday in which he is reported to have warned of the political and economic dangers of continued deficit financing was along the lines of Robinson's ideas. Friends of both men are authority for the statement that disagreement in the last year over vital policies such as spending and the administration attitude toward some phases of the labor problem slowly have been drawing the President and Garner apart.

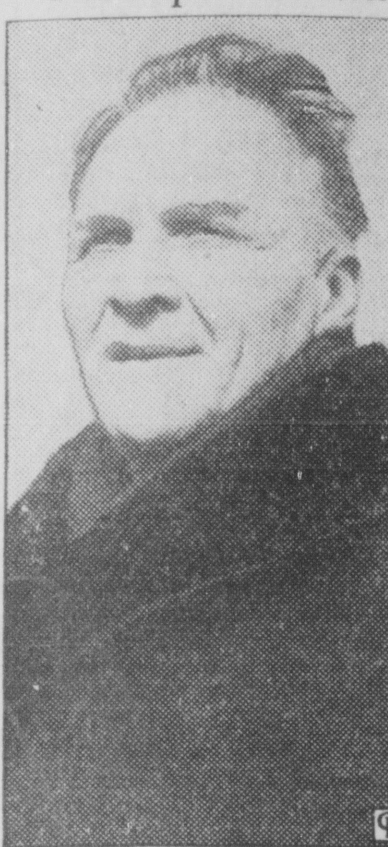

Reports Denied

At his press conference yesterday, however, Mr. Roosevelt denied newspaper reports that Garner had sharply protested at a White House conference Monday against the administration's proposed relief or recovery policies. He said nothing had transpired to affect their relationship.

He admitted that he had challenged critics of New Deal business reforms attributed in a newspaper dispatch to Garner, but that Garner had denied the attack.

Attack against the Kelly-Nash machine centered around Jarecki, a dapper little Polish-American with beribboned eye-glasses who had gained attention by sentencing many fraudulent voters in his position as custodian of the ballot in Cook county.

Jarecki was dropped by the organization and immediately taken up by Homer and Courtney, who hope to follow their advantage with a victory in the mayoral elections two years hence.

Jarecki ran far ahead of Lucas and other anti-organization candidates presumably because Republicans decided appeals to vote in the Democratic primary and "lick bossism."

At 10:30 a. m. combined Cook county (Chicago) and downstate tabulations gave Igoe an edge of 18,452 over Lucas, but Lucas rapidly narrowed the difference between them as downstate and out-county returns poured in. Election tabulators said Igoe had no longer any chance of remaining ahead in the complete vote.

CIRCUS GOES ON DESPITE STRIKE OF ROUSTABOUTS

NEW YORK, April 13.—(UP)—The show goes on today despite a strike of 200 employees of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus—even if they have to call for volunteers from the audience to haul the cage of gargantua, the gorilla, and move the pedestal for the living statues.

Circus officials predicted there would be a compromise in the strike and that before night it would again be the greatest show on earth instead of a hodge-podge of acts in which the giant, the fat lady and the midgits haul on ropes as well as do their acts.

The strikers are demanding "under canvas" wages for the performances in Madison Square Garden where it is unnecessary to hoist the big top. John Ringling North, circus head who turned roustabout at last night's performance, refused at first to grant the wage increase. The strikers include roustabouts and men who drive the animal wagons. No performers are involved so far.

Twelve thousand persons were in the Garden last night when the strike was called. They seemed to have a good time despite the fact the program was discarded and four acts were omitted. In fact, spectators saved the show on at least one occasion. The curtailed crew was struggling to move the pedestal after the living statues did their act.

It was no go until John Traendly, a horticulturist, and Merle Meyer, a salesman, who had been watching the show from a box, jumped over the rail and put their shoulders to the pedestal.

Only one person was selling programs in the garden—Harvey Mayer, son of the man who got the program publishing contract from the circus 56 years ago.

SECOND BOYOLGY CONFAB ARRANGED THIS EVENING

The second in a series of five weekly meetings designed to be helpful to men dealing with boys will be held this evening at 7:30 in Memorial Hall. Labeled the Circleville "Boyology" course, are offered free of charge to fathers, and others interested in boys.

"The Business of Growing Up" and games and stunts for boys will feature tonight's meeting. Each session consists of an activity period, in which the Scout method of "learning by doing" is followed and a lecture and discussion period. Specific problems of youth workers will be dealt with by specialists and various experts who will speak at the different sessions.

Enrollment in the course is still open to those who were unable to attend the first meeting last week, the committee, composed of Robert Terhune, James I. Smith, Jr. and Rev. R. T. Kelsey, announced.

ELECTRIFICATION WORK MAY START IN SOUTHWESTERN DISTRICT IN FALL

LIGHT COMPANY ASKS LOAN FOR HUGE PROJECT

Mt. Pleasant Men Informed That Utility's Survey Has Been Completed

100 ATTEND DISCUSSION

Karl Herrmann And Meeker Terwilliger Speak

Estimates for the construction of electric lines in the southwestern portion of Pickaway county are being prepared by the Ohio-Midland Light & Power Co., and as soon as they are completed an effort will be made to obtain funds for construction.

This information was given to members of the Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood, Tuesday evening, by John H. Lee, of Canal Winchester, chief construction engineer of the company.

Mr. Lee said that approximately 27 miles of roads in Wayne and Deer Creek townships have been surveyed. The project has been roughly estimated at $34,000. All preliminary surveys have been completed.

May Start in Fall

If the company is successful in borrowing funds for the project, work will be started in the fall, Mr. Lee believed. He said the company at the present time has sufficient construction work on hand to last until August.

Mr. Lee contacted officials of the R. E. A. and learned that it would be at least another year before any rural electrification project could be started in that district.

The project being boosted by the Brotherhood is in the district south of Route 22 between Deer Creek and Route 104. Lack of progress on the part of the Rural Electrification Administration prompted the action of the Brotherhood.

About 100 persons attended the Brotherhood meeting, Karl Herrmann, Circleville's safety director, spoke on his recent trip to Europe.

Meeker Terwilliger, Circleville attorney and chairman of the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9, urged the brotherhood to participate in the event. Williamsport plans to have a float in the parade. C. C. Chappelear, who taught school more than 50 years ago in the Mt. Pleasant district, was introduced.

The Brotherhood was served a spaghetti dinner by Frank A. Mannarino, Chillicothe. Members of the supper and program committee were William D. Radcliff, chairman, H. W. Campbell, Lee Luellen, Clarke Smith, Donald Morgan, Joseph S. Varney, S. B. Metzger, George Lemay and George Bochard. E. C. Rector is president of the organization.

Library Notes

Hector Bolitho, (whose biography of King Edward VIII is still among the most called for books at the Circleville Library), is the logical person to write the story of King George VI. Recognized as the leading authority on the history of the British Royal Family, Bolitho has also written books on Queen Victoria, Edward VII, the Prince Consort, and Windsor Castle.

In the preparation of this new biography, which starts with George's boyhood, and continues through his coronation, Bolitho has had access to much material and many interviews, not available to other writers.

This book is the first April addition to the local library.

Though a younger country than the United States, Australia years ago met and worked out certain economic and social problems that today are the concern of America. A new book "Australia Advances," by David M. Dow, reviews many questions of immediate interest to thoughtful Americans.

Thirteen years' experience as an Australian government official in the United States have given Mr. Dow unusual opportunities to contrast conditions in his home land with those in the United States.

Hitler is underestimated, says an American writer. We might give him his due if he'd shave off that mustache.

Garner is a powerful figure on Capitol Hill. But whatever may be his objections to spending there is neither any assurance that he would openly oppose a liberal program of disbursements nor that he could do much to stop it even if he joined the fight. More likely is that a bloc of Republican and Democratic conservatives aided by some of the liberals who bolted the New Deal on judiciary reorganization might be able to withhold from the White House and retain for congress a large measure of control over the spending of new recovery and relief funds.

It already seems obvious that congress will not back down on the policy of insisting that any relief funds voted must be so allocated that they would span the period for which they were intended.

CIRCUS GOES ON DESPITE STRIKE OF ROUSTABOUTS

NEW YORK, April 13.—(UP)—The show goes on today despite a strike of 200 employees of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus—even if they have to call for volunteers from the audience to haul the cage of gargantua, the gorilla, and move the pedestal for the living statues.

Circus officials predicted there would be a compromise in the strike and that before night it would again be the greatest show on earth instead of a hodge-podge of acts in which the giant, the fat lady and the midgits haul on ropes as well as do their acts.

The strikers are demanding "under canvas" wages for the performances in Madison Square Garden where it is unnecessary to hoist the big top. John Ringling North, circus head who turned roustabout at last night's performance, refused at first to grant the wage increase. The strikers include roustabouts and men who drive the animal wagons. No performers are involved so far.

Twelve thousand persons were in the Garden last night when the strike was called. They seemed to have a good time despite the fact the program was discarded and four acts were omitted. In fact, spectators saved the show on at least one occasion. The curtailed crew was struggling to move the pedestal after the living statues did their act.

It was no go until John Traendly, a horticulturist, and Merle Meyer, a salesman, who had been watching the show from a box, jumped over the rail and put their shoulders to the pedestal.

Only one person was selling programs in the garden—Harvey Mayer, son of the man who got the program publishing contract from the circus 56 years ago.

Mayer said it was a question of tradition with him and that he would sell programs even if not a single act appeared in the rings.

There were ugly charges of sabotage in connection with the lights in the cage of gargantua the gorilla, featured performer in this year's circus. There are lights in the ceiling of gargantua's cage to give spectators a good view of the gorilla, but last night those lights would not work. Circus officials charged there had been tampering. Gargantua appeared without benefit of lights, going through his act in a sort of near-dim light.

MAN POSES AS SAWYER, LEAVES BOGUS CHECK

CLEVELAND, April 13.—(UP)—Posing as Charles W. Sawyer, Democratic candidate for nomination as governor, a dignified man bought eight 50-cent cigars from Dave Rosenblum here, pocketed the change from a $21 bogus check and left. Rosenblum told police today.

With billions of dollars mobilized against him, will Old Man Recession recede?

SECOND BOYOLGY CONFAB ARRANGED THIS EVENING

The second in a series of five weekly meetings designed to be helpful to men dealing with boys will be held this evening at 7:30 in Memorial Hall. Labeled the Circleville "Boyology" course, are offered free of charge to fathers, and others interested in boys.

"The Business of Growing Up" and games and stunts for boys will feature tonight's meeting. Each session consists of an activity period, in which the Scout method of "learning by doing" is followed and a lecture and discussion period. Specific problems of youth workers will be dealt with by specialists and various experts who will speak at the different sessions.

Enrollment in the course is still open to those who were unable to attend the first meeting last week, the committee, composed of Robert Terhune, James I. Smith, Jr. and Rev. R. T. Kelsey, announced.
